JKTech Recognised Again in Export Awards

JKTech's ongoing success in exporting its technology to the international mining and mineral processing market has, once again, been recognised in The Premier of Queensland's Export Awards.

The 2007 Awards saw JKTech chosen from a strong field of 30 entrants, to be named one of three finalists in the Services category.

This is the second year in which JKTech has achieved a commendable result in these awards - last year saw JKTech named Winner in the Small to Medium Manufacturing and Mining category.

JKTech's application included their overall range of innovative technology, with a strong focus on software and consulting solutions and training and education services for the international mining and minerals processing market.

These awards reinforce the vital commercialisation role that JKTech plays with the Julius Kruttschnitt Mineral Research Centre (JKMRC) of UQ's Sustainable Minerals Institute (SMI); and recognise the JK Centre (encompassing both JKMRC and JKTech) for its combined success in innovative research, technology transfer and delivering value to customers.
